“ I dont even know where to start, I was so shocked and deeply saddened when I saw the announcement in the IH Community that Amy had passed away, she was always there for the group and meant so much to us all. I hope her family can find deep solice in the fact that she is in pain no longer and will always be with them watching over and taking care of them just as she did in her life.
I will miss you Amy and so will all the folks in group.

“ Though I did not know Amy personally, my heart is moved to tears, at the sad news of her death.

I remember when Bound4Life was only a dream , and now champions of justice fill this nation. Amy her husband and four children were signs , wonder, and champions of justice in this generation . They took a bold stand for the life of the unborn and are written in God's diary of remembrance forever. May thousands because of her life and death ,take her place on the wall.

This is the quote that the early Bound4Life company adopted when they stood on the wall in DC.

" When the victors when they come , when the forts of folly fall, find my body near the wall." A pioneer and hero has died and has fulfilled this destiny. Let us follow in her train. We grieve with Amy's family. With love from the Engle family.

“ I am lucky to have millions of memories with Amy. The one that keeps taking the spotlight is when we were playing outside one day in Gladeville when we were children. I had just seated myself on the concrete patio in front of our garage and set up my toys to play fast food restaurant. All of a sudden, Amy came up behind me and pushed me to the ground for no apparent reason. I became angry and had intent to push her back and call her all sorts of names. When I turned to face her, she was on the ground screaming and crying with a ladder across her foot. It was set up against the garage wall when a gust of wind came and blew it towards us. She broke her foot by taking the hit from the ladder that would have been a possibly fatal hit to my head. She saved my life and didn't care if it hurt her to do so. She was so selfless and I never realized until now just how much she did for me. I love you Amy and I miss you terribly.

“ Amy, you are now where all true Christians long to be - at home with their Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. We bow to His sovereign will for taking you at such a relatively young age; but we know that He knows what is best for us. Thank you for your faithful testimony while walking through your furnace of afflictions. We will pray that God will use your testimony for the good of many others.

“ I had a few classes with Amy at Oakland High School. Amy and I and, ironically enough, another Amy and a few more friends used to eat lunch together our senior year of high school. She was quiet and sweet and more mature than any of us dreamed of being... wise beyond her years. We lost touch after high school, but I came across a picture of her just last week. The news of her passing is heart wrenching. My deepest sympathies for her loving husband, her children, her parents and all of the other friends and family that her life has touched. May you all be comforted knowing that there is a new angel watching over the world.
Prayerfully yours, Amy Stearns

I will miss her but know that she is an Angel and will be one of the best and brightest just as she was here on Earth..
My Prayers our with you her husband and children ., I have no words to ease your pain I just wanted to share how much she meant to me even though I never met her in person. I knew she was and honest, caring person who suffered so many trials with her health but never complainedbut made others feel better with her caring ways..that is so rare today.

She will be missed by many...

“ I met Amy for the very first time at my husband's services in May, 2010. Amy and I became friends on Facebook and she gave me so much support and prayers during his illness.

I saw Amy a few weeks ago when she came home of the hospital. She was laying on the sofa in pain but I wanted to see her if only for a few minutes. She smiled briefly and I left. I have been keeping up with Amy and Shawn through his message through FB and Caring Bridge.

Amy and my husband Charlie are no longer in pain and they are now angels with wings.

My love and condolences to the family,

“ There was no sweeter a woman that Amy Campbell. Although I've known her since high school, it wasn't until the last few years that we really connected. Her light shined so brightly and this is obvious by how many "moths" were attracted to her beautiful flame. Every time we prayed together I felt like Jesus was holding us in His arms. Now that God has decided He wants her by His side, I am inspired to pick up her torch and continue the good work of defending the defenseless. Amy, I'll bet you're up there holding so many of those babies right now! Please give them a kiss from me too.

Even when we didn't think she should, she always insisted. I always enjoyed our talks after the cemetery tours for Oaklands on our drive to her church. Where as she looked familiar and I couldn't figure out why. We started catching up on life after high school. It was great we both have 2 little girls that played together a few times. She was great at taking pictures and the last time I saw her was on her birthday. She looked so happy and that is how I will forever remember her. May she rest in peace and no longer feel any pain. “ When I met Amy so many years ago she was the loving caring person we all wish we had in our lives. She was the one whom was always listening and helping you with whatever may have come your way. I moved as soon as I graduated and lost touch with so many including her. When I joined facebook and found her again she made me feel as if no time had passed and we were right where we had been in 1997. She and I shared our past years lives and battle wounds if you will and laughed and cried and prayed for one another. She told me about her disease and I told her about my cancer and my fiance's deployment. She was there and proceeded to tell me that she was here to walk my life story through as I was there to see her's through. Well I have seen it as far as I could and now I wish I could have been there through so much more. Dove was a kind caring woman whom wore her heart on her sleeve for all to experience and rejoyce in. I have used Dove as an example to live by and i hope one day to walk through the gates of Heaven and see her proud and smiling saying good job!! Those whom knew her were lucky and blessed and I thank the Good Lord above that I was one of them. Thank you Amy for making me see beauty through your eyes and enjoy life. I love you and wil miss you greatly doll. Go rest in God's hands and smile for we know you are an angel among us.

“ I went to her 30th birthday party. I had a great time but I missed the slaying of a snake haha. She was a good woman and now she's gone. I know God is watching over her.

Jantu Moore - Church Member - September 18, 2010 at 12:00 AM

“ My dear IH friend may you dance, sing, laugh and play at the feet of our loving Lord for the rest of your days. To your family and friends left behind may peace be with you and prayers be raised for you during this difficult time.

“ I'll always remember Amy as the fun loving woman who no matter how sick or ill she felt she always tried to cheer others up that suffered with the same illness. She was so easy to connect to and everyone loved her from the first point of contact. She was truly an angel. One of God's warriors who had unbelievable amounts of strength and the power to make people love her and of course the power to help others just by smiling in their direction. Amy will never be forgotten. She was loved by all she came in contact with and has changed our lives making them better just by knowing and sharing her journey with us. She was amazing. And I'm a better person just for walking beside her in this life.

~Our Angel - Amy Campbell~

Written & dedicated for Amy & her family

One special angel
Sent from above
A heart of gold
It bursts with love

From a gentle smile
Or a special hug
Her soul so bright
She was sent from above

Each life she touched
She spread her love
Passing in this life
Our hearts she has touched

She leaves this world
Our tears they fall
She was so special
She will never be lost

She found her way
With that heart of gold.
She's found deep down
In all of our hearts

Her memories around us
Her smiles and hugs
Sadness may fill us
But the truth is there

Heaven recalled
Their angel
So no more pain
She will feel here

God blessed us to see her
Heavens best gift from above
He sent us his Angel
We were blessed by her special touch

“ Amy was a special person and always an encouragement to those of us also suffering from IH along with her. She will be forever missed. May her family and friends find comfort at this difficult time.

We love you Amy!

“ Dearest Amy, You have forever changed my life. Every memory I have is of you doing something for someone else. You gave your time, talents and prayers to so many. No one has any idea how many people you have touched. I will always love and miss you. I will see you soon. Love, Jes =.)

Shawn, I weep with you in the loss of this lovely, Godly woman. I am praying for your strength to get through this. If you need anything please let us know. Hold fast bruh...
Love~Jes

Eva and Anya, What two beautiful girls you are! When I look at you I can see your mom. Cherish your memories of your mother and keep them close. She will always be with you. Lean on God for strength and let Him guide you. I love you girls! Love,
Jes
