“ When I bought a small apartment complex on Airport Avenue in 1984, Mr. Herrod was already a tenant there. He remained a tenant of mine for about 20 years. He was so punctual and non-complaining that I never even met him for the first 15 of those years! When I had a couple of occasions to check his apartment (looking for a water leak that was causing the meter to never cease running, I found it perfectly kept...bed was made, everything spic-and-span, shoes neatly lined up in closet. One could not ask for a better tenant. When I finally did run in to him, he was just as nice as I would have expected. A fine man. I am honored to have known him.
